

RACINE BANK IS MINUS $15,000

John Schulte, Paying Teller Of The First National, Has Also Disappeared.

FLED ON ARRIVAL OF EXAMINER

Detectives Are On His Trail--Was Bonded By American Co. Of Baltimore--May Have Taken K. Of C. Funds.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Racine, Wis., July 29.—One of the biggest sensations in the history of local financial circles developed this morning when it became known that John Schulte, paying teller of the First National bank, was a defaulter in the sum of $15,000 and had disappeared, no trace being found of him. Schulte had been an employee of the bank for twenty years, three years as assistant teller and one and a half years as teller. The balance of the time he worked on the books. John Schulte is forty years old and a brother of Prof. Henry Schulte, leader of a prominent band here. He is also a brother of Theo. Schulte, agent for the Schlitz brewing company of Milwaukee.

The discovery of the delinquency was made when Charles Mortens, national bank examiner, came here on a semi-annual visit and made an inspection of the bank's affairs. While he was in Schulte's cage counting the money he found it to be correct, but Schulte excused himself and left the bank telling the cashier, Geo. Pratt, that he would be back in a short time. He failed to put in an appearance and the money in the vault which was in the care of Schulte was counted and found to be $15,000 short. Detectives were immediately notified and are scouring the city and in fact the state for Schulte and can find no trace of him. The news of the delinquency was a great surprise because Schulte was a quiet man, never gambled, did not drink or use tobacco and was married but a year and a half ago. What he did with the money is not known. He was bonded by the American Bonding Co. of Baltimore, so that the bank will not lose one dollar by the delinquency. The bonding company and also the federal authorities have been notified and every effort will be made to apprehend Schulte. His wife states that she knows nothing whatever of the affair and that he never confided anything to her.

After the delinquency at the bank became known officers of the Racine Council of Knights of Columbus ordered an examination of the books, Schulte being the treasurer of the organization and intrusted with about $700 of the council's money. The books could not be found at once and it is impossible to state whether or not there is any shortage.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Fond du Lac, Wis., July 29.—The arrival of Senator La Follette in Fond du Lac this morning accompanied by W. H. Dick of New London and Senator Hatton, for whom Mr. Dick is business assistant and campaign manager, is regarded as the most significant happening in the senatorial campaign to date. When asked for his views on the political situation, Senator La Follette simply wiped the perspiration from his brow and remarked that he was exceedingly warm. Mr. Dick acted as spokesman, however, and said: "We are on our way to Wau-paca to attend the Chautauqua. I do not know whether you appreciate it or not, but the trip is quite significant. Mr. Hatton is not making Chautauqua speeches but Senator La Follette is and I am going with him."

LA FOLLETTE TALKED TO LARGE AUDIENCE

His Address at Madison Yesterday Did Not Touch Upon State or National Politics.

Madison, Wis., July 28.—Nearly 2,500 people listened to Senator La Follette at the Monona Lake Chautauqua assembly yesterday, when he delivered his address on Representative Government. He had revised the old speech somewhat, leaving out the "roll call" of senators whom he used to charge with being corporation tools. But in the revision he said not a word that was expected because of his telegram to Judge Taft, that the Chicago platform was disappointing "in essential provisions and omissions." It was expected that Senator La Follette would declare himself on the republican platform, but those who came to hear such a declaration were disappointed.

It is now said that La Follette is in accord with Taft, because the nomination mentioned with approval in his speech of acceptance of the proposal for a physical valuation of railroad property as a basis for the determination of reasonable freight rates.

PRIMARY LAW HAS SHOWN DIFFICULTY

Men with Small Purse, Like McGovern, Complain of the Requirements.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., July 28.—Friends of the primary system are worried over the effect which the present "bar" campaign for the republican senatorial nomination will have upon the standing of that "direct vote" nomination scheme. The prediction of those who were reluctant to abolish the old convention system, that the primary election would tend to eliminate the poor man from politics, seems to be amply verified in the present campaign. Stephen and Hatton are millionaires. Cook is also close to the million mark in worldly possessions, and all three are not to be accused of being "tight wads." In the way they are campaigning, each has expensive press agents and other agents. Money is flying. Most of it may be for legitimate campaign incidents, but it is getting into circulation nevertheless. District Attorney McGovern of Milwaukee is complaining that he is handicapped in the race against the millionaires. He is not wealthy.

Independence Party Officially Launched At Chicago Yesterday With Hisgen And Graves As Candidates.

For President—Thomas L. Hisgen of Massachusetts.
For Vice-President—John Temple Graves of Georgia.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Chicago, July 29.—Seven hundred delegates of the newly founded Independence Party, founded, created and supported by William Randolph Hearst, nominated Thomas L. Hisgen of Massachusetts as their candidate for President and John Temple Graves of Georgia as their choice for vice-president.

All this was not done without turmoil and almost a free fight in which J. I. Sheppard, a Kansas delegate, attempted to stampede the convention.

for William Jennings Bryan and was not only driven from the hall, but almost torn to pieces by the enraged delegates and hired hangers-on.

This incident was the culmination of a day spent in excitement over the platform and almost disruption of the baby political party until Hearst himself straddled matters out and restored peace. It was during the nominating speeches and Sheppard was on the platform to make a nomination when it was discovered he was talking for the Nebraska man.

The scene which followed was explosive.

Hearst were balloted for. It took two ballots before Hisgen was nominated. Then followed Graves' nomination for second place on the ticket.

The platform as adopted can be seen at a glance in the following paragraphs:

POLISH BISHOP
IS CONSECRATEDAS AUXILIARY BISHOP OF CATHO-LIC DIOCESE OF CHICAGO.

REV. PAUL PETER RHODE

New Bishop is 39 Years Old and is One of the Youngest Bishops in the Country.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Chicago, Ill., July 20.—The consecration today of the Rev. Paul Peter Rhode, D. D., as auxiliary bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Chicago, attracted attention of Polish-speaking people throughout the world as an event of historic importance to the Polish nation. Bishop Rhode is the first of the army of Polish-speaking Roman Catholics priests in the United States to be promoted from the ranks of the priesthood to the episcopate.

The ceremonies of consecration took place this morning in Holy Name Cathedral and were attended by delegations of Bohemian, French, Lithuanian and Italian priests from all parts of the country. Four archbishops and twelve bishops, who have many Polish-speaking people in their dioceses, also were present. The great cathedral, spacious though it is, proved much too small to accommodate all who desired to attend.

The consecrating prelate was Arch-bishop Quigley, who took the first step among the archbishops of the United States to give the Polish-speaking Roman Catholics recognition in the episcopate of the church in America, and at whose petition Pope Pius X. named the Rev. Paul Peter Rhode, who was pastor of St. Michael's Polish Roman Catholic church in this city, for that honor. Archbishop Quigley was assisted in the ceremony by Bishop Muldoon of Chicago and Bishop Koutecky of Cleveland, the first Bohemian bishop in America. A large number of the clergy assisted as officers of the consecration service and of the solemn pontifical mass.

Every inch of space in the cathedral, the seating capacity of which is 2,000, was occupied, and hundreds of Polish residents of Chicago and vicinity, unable to obtain tickets for admission, stood outside to see the procession, consisting of Rev. Rhode, and the consecrating officials in their vestments pass through the episcopal grounds and enter the cathedral. The ceremony, which was begun at 10 o'clock and required nearly three hours, is one of the most solemn and impressive in the church ritual. It is divided into three parts, the preliminary examination, the consecration proper and the investiture.

Bishop Rhode succeeds Bishop Muldoon as auxiliary bishop of Chicago. Bishop Muldoon, it is understood, is to be transferred to the charge of the new diocese of Rockford. At a convocation of Polish priests held in the Holy Name Cathedral two years ago, the name of Father Rhode was selected to be submitted to the papal legation at Washington as choice for elevation to a bishopric. Archbishop Quigley readily signified his satisfaction with the choice of the priests.

The new bishop is but 39 years old and is one of the youngest bishops in the country. He was born in Prussian Poland, but came to Chicago when a small boy. His mother still lives in Chicago. As a youth he attended a parochial school and continued his studies in St. Mary's College, Kentucky, under the guidance of the Resurrectionist order. He returned to Chicago and studied in St. Ignace's College and his theological studies were completed in 1896 and became assistant pastor of St. Peter and Paul's Church in this city, where he remained for two years. He then was made pastor of St. Michael's Church in South Chicago, where he still remains. The church now becomes the seat of the new bishop who represents the Polish Catholics of America as their first prelate.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

It is obligatory, therefore, for the local company to raise the country phones which now pay $1.25 to $1.50 except where contracts exist—then at expiration of such contract it shall be $1.50.

BIG CIRCUS IS TO BE HERE TOMORROWComes from Monroe to Janesville in Five Long Trains—Twenty-four Hour Man Is Here.

The "lying squadrons," by which term the first section of the longest circus train in the world is known, will arrive in the city shortly after midnight, and long before the majority of the Janesville citizens are awake, the vast paraphernalia of "Hugling Brothers' "World's Greatest Show," will be located on the show grounds.

The other four trains will follow the "lying squadrons" at intervals of an hour, and it is safe to state that the street parade will leave the show grounds by 9:30 o'clock and arrive in the central part of the city shortly after 10 o'clock.

The street display is known here, as elsewhere, to be a singularly difficult and imposing affair. There are nearly 1,300 people connected with this show, and most of them have some part in this procession.

The horses of the big show are one of its attractive features, and the management objected to the long line of the show, all of which have been carefully picked so that this equine display alone is worth a long journey to witness.

This is the twenty-fifth year of the Hugling Brothers in the circus business. They are now the most important factors in this difficult form of amusement, beginning with the ascent of one elephant and a home-made canvas, they have progressed until they employ nearly 1,000 people, and have quarters in several places in Europe and America. They had to fight their way out, because the big people of the business like Barnum, Bailey, Forepaugh, and Sells Brothers did not favor their presence and did everything they could to stop the growth of Hugling Brothers.

Everybody hereabouts knows how Hugling Brothers took the city by surprise upon its first visit a few years ago. They found it an organization of not only unexpected size, but wonderful circus refinement and satisfaction. The people in the street seemed to be well groomed and contented, and all the property was the mark of intelligent and proud care. At the show grounds there was a spirit of courtesy in the manner of employees that could not be mistaken and which will always rebound to the credit of the well-managed Hugling show.

There are 400 people concerned with this year's program of Hugling Brothers' circus, and one-half of this number is picked from other circuses, appearing here for the first time. Among the features in the long list are the Barnums of France, and Clark Brothers of England. Then there are the Morze-Golems of Persia; Marcella-Murphy of Italy; Carmichael of Spain; Flying Jordans, Patty Bros. of Ohio; Charles and a lot of others, leaders in the circus profession, but too many to name here.

The climax of the long jubilee bill is an act which outshines all previous thrillers. An automobile in which is seated a nervous young woman, Lillabelle Hoche, descends a sheer decline from the top of the tent, and when about 12 feet from the ground is shot into space and turns two complete somersaults before it lands on a distant spring platform whence it speeds into the hippodrome track and whirls until its energy is spent. This act is the most blood curdling ever offered by circus management and has created a furor everywhere presented.

The highest expression of the circus idea is to be found in the show of Hugling Brothers. The acts are individually important, the growing feature fresh, the seating arrangements comfortable, the employees courteous and the atmosphere of people and things generally such as appeals to the discerning.

In order to accommodate the citizens of Janesville and vicinity the Hugling Brothers will establish a branch ticket office at the People's Drug Store, where reserved seats and admission tickets are sold at precisely the same prices as are charged at the show grounds.

There is nothing more impressive to the average mind than an array of figures. Whether right wing figures are generally accepted without investigation as being correct, and this fact has afforded not a little amusement to Charles Hugling, one of the Hugling Brothers, who are this season celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of their career as circus proprietors.

Mr. Hugling loves a good joke as well as anybody, and in his managerial capacity has frequent opportunity to enjoy himself in that manner. A few days since, while entertaining a crowd of long standing visitors of the Hugling White City, he teased off something like this:

"Do you know, Mr. Blank, that the 670 horses cover a total distance of 614,000 miles every season in making the daily street parade? That the steam required by the engine would be sufficient to draw a train of thirty cars across the continent nine times. Why, the rope used in the construction of those tents, if stretched in an air-line, would reach from Chicago three times around the world and end at a point three miles east of Odessa, Russia."

"Take the helpers, for instance. There are twenty-five of them and during an average season they will leap a distance of 4,550,000 feet, and the herd of forty elephants will drink in one season more than 500,000 gallons of water. Then again, the thread used in making all the costumes of the Hugling Brothers' show would reach from the earth to the moon."

Mr. Hugling's friend was impressed. The deluge of figures seemed to go to his head. He stood speechless and unmovable. Realizing that he had made Mr. Blank going to his liking the showman continued:

"It requires the product of 3510 acres of land to feed the elephants, camels and horses. A dense forest of twenty acres would have to be despoiled to secure sufficient lumber to replace the seats, poles and properties of the show. Five thousand barrels of flour paste are consumed annually in pasting 2,500,000 sheets of advertising matter.

"Come on inside," continued Mr. Hugling, "let's look at Jack and Jill, the funny chimpanzees."

DIED AS RESULT OF A SUNSTROKEJames Miles Overcome While at Work on Farm Near Free.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Janesville, July 20.—James Miles, formerly of this city, was overcome with the heat and suffered a sunstroke while at work on a farm near Freeport last Friday. He recovered sufficiently in the evening to go to the home of his son, Roy Miles, in Rockford and as he grew rapidly worse he was removed at once to the city hospital where he died Saturday afternoon at one o'clock, aged fifty-three years.

The remains were brought here to the home of his son, Charles, in this city, where the funeral was held yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. Rev. T. W. North officiated and Mrs. North and Miss Letta Walton sang. Mr. Miles resided here until about ten years ago, when he went to Milwaukee, where he was employed as a motorman on the street car, and later went to Rockford where he held a similar position. The funeral was largely attended by sympathizing friends and neighbors.

Earl Gilles, Henry Gardner, Roy Rockford and Irvin Winters were in Madison yesterday, a ball game being the attraction.

Miss Madeline Bishop of Wiley, Iowa, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Leola Pierce.

No Moral in This Story.

In June, 1898, a poor man called at the humble dwelling of a washerwoman on the West side. He said he was starving, and she gave him half a dollar. Nothing was heard of him until one day last week, when he called again and got another half dollar.—Smart Set.

GOOD CONCERT BY THE CAROLINIANSFINAL APPEARANCE OF CARTER'S CAROLINIANS LAST NIGHT.

THE DICKENS MAN TONIGHT

Miss Porter This Afternoon and
Wm. Sterling Battle on Tonight.

The Chautauqua this year is one of the best that has ever been given in this locality and yesterday the talent that performed was especially fine.

Yesterday morning Miss Woolley had arranged for the children preparing them for the exhibition drill to be given Friday afternoon. Miss Woolley succeeds very well with the children who come but at present there are only about twenty-five or thirty in the class and she would like to increase the size of it.

Mr. Edgar M. Wright also gave a talk on "Society" to the older folks and will speak this morning on "David." These Bible studies by Mr. Wright are rare treats as Mr. Wright is well acquainted with his subject and uses the choicest of English in the expression of his thoughts.

Yesterday afternoon the Carolinians opened the program with a few of their songs which are so popular with the audience. Mr. Wright was the speaker of the afternoon speaking on the subject, "Every Man is a King and Every Woman is a Queen" in place of the topic "Psychology of Woman and Her Ways."

However, a psychological talk, in this lecture Mr. Wright proceeded to show how by touching the springs of life every man becomes a king and by touching the springs of life every woman becomes a queen. He says that in every life there are the tendencies to love, think, will and hope and that in everyone one of these tendencies is greater than the others, according to the color of the person's eyes. The native tendency of persons having blue eyes, he says, is to love and help the world along by their good works; of persons having gray eyes is to think and do things that require brains; black eyes have the power to lure, he says, because the person that has black eyes has a strong will, and the native tendency of such persons is to accomplish great things in whatever they attempt; the native tendency for brown eyes is to hope; the native tendency for brown eyes who see the silver lining to the cloud. He then went on to show how by the use of these facts and by right thinking every person could accomplish their particular mission in the world.

In the evening the Carter Carolinians gave their full program before a large sized and very enthusiastic audience. Many times they were called back and each time they responded willingly, having an apparently inexhaustible supply of their popular darky love songs, campmeeting songs and all of the songs so loved by the darkies. The work of the Carolinians quartet was immensely popular, being encored about five times after the singing of the first song.

Today's Program.
This morning there was the child work in charge of Miss Woolley, and Mr. Wright's Bible class. This afternoon at 2:30, Mrs. Martha S. Gilew, who has won much applause through her interpretation of plantation folk-lore, gave her entertainment on "Sins and Stories from Old South."

Mrs. Wright's Bible class, Miss Grace Cleveland, Porter appeared this afternoon in place of Mrs. Gilew, who is incapacitated by an injury to her knee. Miss Porter is a cousin of the late ex-President Cleveland, and was followed by Miss Alta Beach Edmonds.

This evening Wm. Sterling Battle will give his lecture on "Dickens Child Studies."

The program for tomorrow is as follows:
10:00 a. m.—Child Work, Miss Woolley
10:30 a. m.—Bible Study, C. M. Wright
2:00 p. m.—Prelude, Alta B. Edmonds
2:30 p. m.—"Hypnotism, Is It a Fraud?"—Miss W. Wareing
4:15 p. m.—Postlude—Miss W. Wareing
8:00 p. m.—"Mirth, Music and Dramatic Readings"—The Houghtons

To feel strong, have good appetite and digestion, sleep soundly and enjoy life, use Buckle Kidney and Bladder, the great system tonic and builder.

Mr. Sheldon's home at Glen Cove, Long Island, from whence the campaign for republican funds is being waged.

By Hendrick
New York, July 29.—The hunt is on! No longer for candidates; but now for cash!

George R. Sheldon has received his commission as treasurer of the republican national committee and along with it is said to have gone instructions to immediately corral at least $2,000,000. To the big man in politics, the bill is not a small one. He is a close friend of Blaine. He owns yachts and horses, and automobiles. He can afford to be treasurer of the national committee; and should funds run low, he can even afford to make up the deficit. He owns a beautiful estate at Glen Cove and he reaches it by one of the prettiest and fastest yachts on Long Island sound. His speaked Blaine's judgment. So they waited till Blaine arrived. He made his recommendation, and straightway a new figure loomed up on the political horizon. And that was born George R. Sheldon, then of Glen Cove, Long Island and New York city.

Mr. Sheldon is a banker of long and successful experience. He has been brought up in New York city, and illustrates his friendliness to campaign fund publicity, despite Denver oratory to the contrary.

Three million dollars will be decidedly less than the G. O. P. has been in the habit of running its campaign on. It sounds more like a democratic figure. Estimates on campaign funds of the past 48 years are as follows:

Year	Rep.	Dem.
1860	100,000	50,000
1864	125,000	50,000
1868	150,000	75,000
1872	250,000	50,000
1876	350,000	50,000
1880	1,100,000	350,000
1884	1,300,000	1,400,000
1888	1,350,000	850,000
1892	2,000,000	2,350,000
1896	6,000,000	675,000
1900	9,500,000	600,000
1904	5,000,000	1,250,000

Lincoln didn't have as much of a fund as it already rumored Andrew Carnegie, with a check of $250,000, has already contributed. Democracy never did shine, except in 1892, when nearly two million and a half dollars was collected. By strange coincidence, democracy won that year. Which does not deprive the suggestion that money talks.

The funds this year will be smaller than for some time past, but even with a reduction, it still requires a man of the caliber of Sheldon to deliver the goods.

Blaine got into McKinley's cabinet on the strength of his work as treasurer. Will Sheldon?

MAIL ORDER TRUST.

For several years the writer was road manager for a rural route delivery company operating in the states of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Pennsylvania, and while in that capacity was thoroughly conversant with the ways and methods used by the mail order firms to secure business.

When the postal authorities prohibited the rural route carriers from soliciting orders and delivering the big catalogues without the additional postage the mail order firms immediately adopted a new and novel method of getting their catalogues into the hands of the farmers. Hundreds of catalogues were shipped by freight prepaid to an employee of the railroad company; this employee secured the names and addresses from local merchants of the farmers and tenants within a radius of ten miles of the station. He sent them a postal card, which was furnished by the mail order house advising them to please call at the freight depot for a package on which there were no charges, and in the meanwhile the mail office of the mail order company sent out notices to all the names they had on their lists in that neighborhood to call at the freight office for a new catalogue.

Every catalogue the freight office employee delivered he took a receipt signed on the postal card and when returned to the mail order firm he was paid ten cents for each book delivered.

It enabled the mail order firm to get their books into the hands of the farmer at an expense of less than twelve cents. This added to the cost of getting out their catalogue made their expense about 74 cents for each prospective buyer.

Many a night I have seen the farmer or his wife spend the whole evening in reading the bargains in the big book and seeing so many things they would like to have in their home or on the farm.

In comparing prices of the catalogue with some articles purchased of a local merchant who in turn bought their butter and eggs; they saw where they paid two cents more for an egg butter. Another article purchased in town was eight cents higher than in the catalogue and soon there came to them a belief that the local hardware man was charging exorbitant prices. Yet on six articles mentioned and compared there was a difference of only twenty-eight cents.

These same goods shipped from Chicago to them would have cost them thirty-five cents freight, five cents for an express order, and two cents for a stamp—an expenditure of forty-two cents to try and save twenty-eight cents.

At New Chester, Pa., I saw a farmer take a box of harness from the express office. It was one of those $6.75 single strap, hand sewed, German silver trimming affairs and the express charges were $1.05. The farmer pulled the old harness off his horse, which was nearly seventeen years in harness, and advised the surrounding spectators that he had sent to Chicago for this harness—"Didn't intend to be skinned any more by the local merchants." Quite a little crowd had gathered and the box was broken open and the harness was taken out. Without stopping to inspect the workmanship or size, the farmer threw the mail order harness onto his horse. The harness did not fit nor could the farmer get the mail order harness on the horse. The harness would have no doubt fit a horse weighing 700 pounds, but his horse weighed over 1200. The surrounding crowd smiled, then began to laugh and roast the mail order patron, and when last I saw him he was trying to disagree with the local harness maker in taking the mail order harness at $5.00 and $12.00 in cash for a home made harness. But the local harness maker refused to trade.

You Could Use A Horse.

But a train is quicker, cheaper and more comfortable.

It is possible to make the trip from New York to Washington with a horse and buggy; but a train is quicker, cheaper and more comfortable.

Likewise, it is entirely possible to wash clothes with ordinary laundry soap, but P. & G. Naphtha Soap is quicker, cheaper and very much easier.

P. & G. Naphtha is the modern soap. It is as much better than ordinary laundry soap as a "limited" train is better than a horse and buggy.

P. & G. Naphtha Soap saves time; and time is money. It saves fuel; and fuel costs money.

The woman who does her own work owes it to herself, to try P. & G. Naphtha Soap. If, by using it, she is able to get through her washing an hour sooner than it now takes, it will have paid for itself four or five times over. It will do that—and MORE.

Let Us Cook Lunch Tomorrow

You miss more than you know if you don't use Van Camp's. Please don't wait longer—order a can today. Let your people taste them once. Then do just as they say about getting the same brand next time.

Here are the most delicious beans in the world. No others begin to compare with them.

Beans infinitely better than beans baked at home, because they are nutty, meaty and whole.

We are selling millions of cans to neighbors of yours and to others. The demand is greater, by several times over, than for any other beans in the world.

Do you still go without them?

You can't afford to do that. Beans are 84% nutriment, yet see how many you get for ten cents. What other food—so appetizing, so nutritious—is nearly so cheap as beans?

Please prove if Van Camp's are as good as we say. Buy one can today—serve them tonight or tomorrow. Ask your people if they like them better than home-baked beans.

If they don't, that's all. But if they do you've found a new dish for your menu. A daily dish that can be served in numerous ways. A delicious dish, always fresh and savory; always ready to serve when you want it.

Please don't be content with home-baked beans. See if our beans are not better.

Let your people decide. Ask them if these beans—nutty and meaty—are better than beans that are mushy and broken.

Ask them if these beans—all baked alike—are better than crisped beans mixed with beans half baked.

Ask if they like the delicious blend that we get by baking the tomato sauce into the beans.

Then note the after-effects. Home-baked beans only partly digest, because you apply insufficient heat. So they ferment and form gas. Van Camp's don't.

Our beans are baked in small parcels—in ovens heated to 245 degrees. They are baked in live steam, not in dry heat. They are baked until that fierce heat separates the particles so the digestive juices can get to them.

The result is our beans are digestible.

Beans are Nature's choicest food when they are rightly baked. More nutritious than meat or eggs or cheese.

They are both cheap and delicious; all people like them. They should be a daily dish, not an occasional.

You will eat more beans, and save much on your meat bills, when you know Van Camp's.

Van Camp's BAKED WITH TOMATO SAUCE PORK AND BEANS

Here are meals ready-cooked—delicious, savory, appetizing—meals that all people like. A dish that is 84 per cent nutriment, prepared in an ideal way. Think what a dozen cans will mean to you in hot weather.

Don't judge Van Camp's by other brands of beans. Please learn by comparison what a difference there is.

We buy only the choicest of Michigan beans, and only the whitest, the plumpiest of those. The beans that we buy are picked over by hand, and all but the best are discarded. The result is, we pay several times as much as other beans would cost.

Our tomatoes are grown close to our kitchens, and ripened on the vines. Thus our tomato sauce gives to our beans that superlative, sparkling zest.

We could buy tomato sauce for exactly one-fifth what we spend to make ours. But it would be made from tomatoes picked green, or of scraps from a canning factory.

The best beans are cheap enough. They are cheaper than poor beans because one eats more of them. They save on meat bills.

You don't know how good beans can be until you try Van Camp's. We have spent 47 years in perfecting this dish; we have a vast trade at stake on it.

We have told you about these beans again and again. We ask you to try them now.

Now Is the Time to Build

There is now a temporary lull in building operations, which has forced down the prices of all building materials to the lowest point they have reached in several years. Keen business men now appreciate that this is the time to let their contracts to obtain the benefit of these low prices. It is very pleasant to Dr. Richards to receive these kind words from bright, intelligent people who know when they receive good service and appreciate them.

VALUE OF CITY IS TEN MILLION

ACCORDING TO THE FIGURES RETURNED BY ASSESSORS.

AN INCREASE OF $217,009

Over the 1907 Appraisal—Improvements on City Lots Come in for Larger Portion of the Rise.

City Clerk Arthur E. Badger completed the checking up of the assessment rolls and footing of totals last evening and his report was turned over to County Clerk Lee today. It is submitted several weeks ahead of time as the final day for filing these assessments is the fourth Monday in August.

Increase in Total Valuation

The total valuation of all real and personal property in Janesville, as shown by this report, is $10,000,000, an increase of $217,009 over the 1907 total of $9,782,991. Real estate and buildings were valued $136,725 and the increase in personal property valuations amounted to $80,284. Under the latter classification, certain 1907 assessments have been increased by the following amounts: Leaf tobacco, $30,636; merchandise and manufacturers' stock, $28,581; franchises and property of the water and light companies, $15,000; bank stock, $27,300. These are offset, to a degree, by a falling off in the item of "miscellaneous" totaling $14,954. The increase is largely due to the fact that the city is growing rapidly, as the years go by, and the material must be forced to conclude that men are not as honest as they used to be.

A Few More Planks

311 phones are listed at $30,370. As compared with 1907 this is an increase of 5 in the number of instruments and $1,520 in the valuation. Fourteen gold and silver watches are assessed at $445. There was the same number on the rolls last year but in the aggregate their value was $30 less, $89 horses are assessed at $63,175, an increase of 20 in number and $1,158 in valuation. Wagons, carriages, and sleighs total 322 and they are worth $13,784 according to the assessors. An increase of 6 in the number of vehicles and $347 in the worth. Only 42 wine worth $217 appear upon the rolls, as compared with 61 worth $704, in 1907, and there is a falling off of 33 in the number of neat cattle and $1,254 in the valuation, the totals for 1908 being 197 and $4,568 respectively. Instead of 2 mules and asses worth $200, the city now boasts of 14 worth $1,100. Automobiles and motor vehicles have increased from 28 to 40. The forty are valued at $18,555, an increase of 12, $291 over last year's assessment. Of boats and other vessels there are 38 instead of 11, and they are appraised at $6,330—a falling off of $405. BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Looking For Lost Bike: On Monday

Thomas Dunham borrowed a bicycle of George Schaller to ride from Walker street to the business section of the city. Upon arriving there he claims to have loaned the wheel to a strange youth about 12 years old who said he would take it back to the place where

Mr. Schaller was working on Walker street. Neither wheel nor boy have been located.

Manager of Company: Walter J.

Gallon, who was manager of the local Hell telephone office about three years ago, has succeeded M. H. King, as manager of the Citizens' Telephone company of Chicago. Mr. Gallon went from here to Milwaukee.

Fred Miller Injured: While at work on Frank Balne's new leaf tobacco warehouse on Madison street, yesterday afternoon, Fred Miller lost his footing and fell twenty feet to the ground. Russell's ambulance conveyed him to the Mercy hospital and Dr.

Nuzum was called to attend him. Though he complained of severe internal pains, it is not believed that the injury will be of a permanent character.

Millian and Half Gallons a Day: On an average the Janesville Water Co.

finds it necessary to pump about 900,

000 gallons a day to supply the needs of the city but during the present hot spell it has been necessary to increase the output by about 600,000 gallons, making a total of 1,500,000 gallons per day. The Janesville and the practice of letting the water run in order to get a cool drink are largely responsible for the increase.

Ring Recovered in a Field: On his farm four and a half miles south of this city, Frank Blunk yesterday found a gold ring that was lost fifteen years ago. It was of heavy gold band design, engraved on the inside with the inscription "P. R. from R. R."

and was given to him by his wife at the time of their marriage. It turned up on tobacco ground which had been under cultivation during all of the intervening time.

Ringling's Circus Passed Through Janesville En Route to Monroe.

This morning between half-past one and half-past six four sections of a train carrying the equipment of the Ringling Bros. circus passed through here en route for Monroe, where they will exhibit today. Each section had twenty-five cars, so that in all there were one hundred cars to carry their paraphernalia. Eight engines were required to pull the train, two on each section. Tomorrow morning they will come back to Janesville to show in this city. The first section will probably arrive here tomorrow about two o'clock.

Later tonight it will double back to Janesville for the show Thursday. The circus entertained fully 23,000 people at Madison yesterday, having fully 14,000 at the afternoon performance. The show travels in five long trains.

ASKS CO-OPERATION ON DAY OF CIRCUS

Chief Appleby Wants Citizens to Take Every Precaution Against Theft and Send Word Promptly if Anything Happens.

The streets will be crowded with visitors tomorrow and in order that there may be few if any of those untoward incidents which frequently happen simultaneously with the appearance of circuses here, Chief Appleby has issued the following notice: "Tomorrow the circus comes to town and the city will be filled with strangers. So let everyone take precautions to protect all jewelry and other valuables. Although Ringling Bros. never allow crooks around their show, they are not always able to prevent the light-fingered gentry from traveling in their wake and these individuals are particularly busy breaking into and ransacking homes while the owners are watching the parade. In case of any trouble report to the police station at once.

SERVED A DEMURRER ON LAST SATURDAY

Case Regarding Head of the Police Department Is Now at Issue.

On Saturday last a demurrer to the plaintiff's complaint as amended was served by W. G. Wheeler, attorney for Geo. Appleby, upon John Cunningham, attorney for the plaintiff. The amended complaint was served upon Mr. Appleby's attorney on July 11th and incorporated in it as an amendment the fact that one of the members of the fire and police commission had not at the time of the alleged election filed his bond and that therefore he could not legally cast a vote.

The amended complaint is demurred to on three grounds: first, that there is a defect of parties defendant in that George D. Simpson, who had not filed his bond at the time of the election, was a necessary party defendant and had not been joined; and that the board of fire and police commissioners were also necessary parties defendant and had not been joined; second, that the plaintiff has not the legal capacity to sue; and, third, because several causes of action are improperly joined.

The case is now at issue, the demurrer raising an issue of law for the court to decide. If the demurrer is sustained the complaint will again be amended and if it is overruled the case can be taken up either on the question of the demurrer or the demurrer may be withdrawn and an answer served.

The date for the hearing before Judge Grimm has not been set as yet.

KICKERS' COLUMN

Ill-Treated at Library

John Connors visited the Gazette office this noon and asked that a protest be registered for him in the Kickers' column against the treatment which he received at the public library this morning.

The janitor, according to the complainant, had made a practice of "kidding" him whenever he happened to see him in the reading room and this forenoon playfully slapped him back of the ears with a moist and unimpaired moustache. Mr. Connors says that the library affords about the only enjoyment he can get out of life; that he has been going there and always living up to the rules and regulations for fifteen years past; that he is not expected or permitted to "kick" anybody and that in his opinion it is only fair that the same treatment should be accorded him.

"My dear," reproached Mr. Jawback, "why do you make such a fuss when our daughter asks you for a little money that she really needs?"

"My dear," responded Mrs. Jawback, "I'm training her. She's going to be married soon, and she should be prepared for the kind of thing I have to go through every day." The silence was oppressive.

Author of "Beverly of Graustark," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY DODD, MEAD & COMPANY

"I supposed you knew only two streets in town—Wells and South Water."

"I know every street in town," Droom retorted, drawing himself up in his chair, and then bluntly, "What's happened?"

"Not so loud! Harburt's here, but"—

"Oh! Here?"

"In Chicago, yes—we'll talk about it later."

The present genial environment and convivial atmosphere were producing a most inspiring effect on the lawyer. The delightful consciousness that the people with whom his son was supping were of the smartest set in town for the moment had banished all fears of exposure. From time to time he glanced proudly across to the alcove table where the men were engaged in unfolding their napkins and toying with their glasses, in lively anticipation of the enjoyment to come; while the women, with the hope of eliciting admiration for their hands and the sparkle of their rings, were taking off their gloves and spreading out their fingers on the tablecloth.

"Graydon seems to be right in the swim, eh, Droom?" he said. The irony of it all appealed strongly to his sense of humor. "I don't suppose you know those swells?" he added patronizingly. Brown was listening intently to the bursts of merriment which were enveloping the restaurant. Like a small boy at a circus who fears that something will happen that he will not see, he was continually turning his head and letting his eyes travel critically over the company at the neighboring table.

At this speech of Bannemer's the eyes of the old clerk returned. They expressed no little resentment at the inference.

"Certainly I do," and, leaning over the table and covertly indicating with his long, bony finger the man at the head of the table, he answered succinctly, "That's Fernmore, he's!"

A particularly loud burst of laughter cut him short. At the adjoining tables conversation had abruptly ceased; heads were turned and inquisitive eyes were fastened on the brilliant entrée at the alcove table.

Few men in Chicago were better known or better liked than the stout, florid complexioned, jovial looking Billy Fernmore, the host of this entertainment. His social adventures and the headlong follies in which his fun loving proclivities invariably ended him were only surpassed by his fondness for riddling himself of his unlimited wealth.

To his inherited five millions marriage had added the colossal fortune of a beautiful heiress, whose extravagance aggregated less than his own solely through the limitations of her sex. Yet, were it not for the self imposed handicap of adhering strictly to the somewhat old fashioned precept that jewels should be acquired only through affectionate beneficence, Mrs. Fernmore might have succeeded in suppressing the princely prodigality of her lord and master.

"It was this way," Billy was saying in his own inimitable manner and awake to the realization of having a "good one" to tell. "A few days ago the lady of my house took wings for New York—a little spree of her own, you understand. And, for Billy Fernmore, I kept out of mischief for a time fairly well. After waiting days, however, for her return, restlessness—and here Fernmore's shameless affection of the neglected husband became so irresistibly funny that it provoked prolonged laughter from his listeners, even Droom showing his yellow wings and stretching his mouth to the fullest extent of the law as he joined in the general chorus—'restlessness gave way to recklessness, and in desperation I invited a half dozen of the oldest and most distinguished widowers in town to dine with me at the hotel, where they were informed they were to be honored by the presence of a boy of the season's prettiest debutantes. My stars, but they were a fine collection of old innocents! Fernmore threw himself back in his chair and roared at the recollection."

"Billy's a wonder when he's wound up," Medford whispered aside to the lady on his right met with a simple nod of the head; for, despite Miss Clegg's well feigned interest in Mr. Medford when Billy was present, on other occasions there was no pretense of enjoyment of his society.

"Among those present—to use the correct phrase," said Billy, after having refreshed himself with sufficient champagne to proceed, "were two retired merchants, a venerable legislator, a doddering banker and a half blind college professor. Of course I had to make some excuse for Mrs. Fernmore's absence. For the life of me I cannot now remember what yarn I told them, but they were too anxious to be presented to the gay young women not to swallow it—whole. The old boys fairly swamped the girls with their senile attentions. It was a lively supper party—my word! And they went home unanimously declaring that the debutantes of the present day discounted, at least in dash and go, the charms of fifty years ago."

Amidst the confusion of peals of merriment which greeted the genial raconteur, Miss Cable, to whom the story did not especially appeal, whispered in awed tones:

"Graydon, who on earth is that queer, spectacular looking man with your father?"

"Oh, that's Droom—hasn't he a character? He's been with the governor since I was a child. In those days his looks used to frighten me almost to death. I fancy he's had a sad life, don't you know?"

"There is something positively awful in his face," returned the girl, as her eyes faltered and dropped to her plate on an unexpectedly meeting those of the subject of her remark.

"Sh-h!" came from Medford, and then, "Come, Billy—what's the point—or the moral, as they say in novels?"

"Fernmore is a rattling good chap at heart," Graydon was saying to Jane, "but I can't stand that Med!"

"Yes, yes; go on, Mr. Fernmore," broke in several voices in eager expectancy.

"The moral?" Billy's eyes were twinkling. "The joke, rather, is on me. When Mrs. Fernmore reached home I thought it wise to say nothing about the affair, but I had completely underestimated the perversity of these rejuvenated venerables. They were not satisfied—wanted to know more about the girls, and the next day in deep but joyous simplicity half a dozen old men asked their married daughters and close friends at the clubs what family of Brown a certain debutante belonged to, who was the father of Miss Jones and how long had the family of Miss Robinson lived in the city, together with a lot of amazing questions. And failing to derive even the remotest satisfaction from the social register, the woman members of their families beset my innocent wife with more or less shocked inquiries as to an entertainment of mine at which their aged relations were present. Well, the game was up! I owned up—confessed to the girls being actresses and begged for mercy."

"And I forgave him," supplemented Mrs. Fernmore smilingly. "Boys will be boys."

"Where?" whispered Billy, in conclusion. "It was no end of a lark! I would not have missed it for the world; but the old chaps will never, never forgive me!"

As the gentleman finished, Bannemer was looking at Droom with amusement. The old clerk was shaking his head in a manner that signified disapproval.

"How's that for doings in swaggar society, eh, Droom? If any one, but Billy Fernmore had done that he would have been ostracized forever. Nothing like millions!"

"I don't believe true aristocrats would do that," interrupted Droom half angrily.

"These are the aristocrats—money aristocrats; the others have lost the name—forgotten. Come, let's go over yonder. We can talk there."

Bannemer called for the bill and settled it; then, slowly rising, ostentatiously waved his adieu to the alcove and deserted the scene for Chapin & Gore's. Droom mockingly followed his employer.

For some time neither spoke. In their still each was busy with his own thoughts and speculations.

"I think I've made a mess of it with Mrs. Cable," began Bannemer, "she—"

"I wouldn't mention names," cautioned Droom, with a look at the top of the partition.

"She's very likely to fight back, after all."

"What was your demand?"

"Money," said Bannemer quietly.

"Humph!" was Droom's way of saying he lied.

"Harburt has a purpose in coming here, Elias. We must prepare for him."

"We are as well prepared as we can expect to be. I guess it means that we'll have to get out of Chicago."

"Curse him!" snarled Bannemer. "I don't care a rap about myself, but it will be a rap with Graydon if anything—or unpleasant should happen to me," said Bannemer, with a wistful glance at his glass. Then in subdued tones he told of the meeting with Harburt. Droom agreed that the situation looked unpleasant, and all the more so in view of what Eddie Deever had mentioned in connection with the marshall's office. He repeated the story as it had come from the bubbling youngster's lips, utterly deceived by the guileless candor from the office downstairs.

"What do you expect to do?" he asked, studying the tense face of his employer.

"I'm going to stand my ground," said Bannemer, steadily drumming on the table with his stiff fingers. "They can't prove anything, and the man who makes a charge against me will have to substantiate it. I'll not run a step."

"Then," said Droom caustically, "you must let Mrs. Cable alone. She is your danger signal. I tell you, Mr. Bannemer, she'll fight if you drive her into a corner. She's not a true aristocrat. She comes of a class that doesn't give up."

"Tah! She's like the rest. If Harburt doesn't get in his nasty work, she'll give in like all the others."

"I thought you said you'd do nothing to mar the happiness of Graydon," sneered Droom.

"I don't intend to, you old fool. This affair is between Mrs. Cable and me. If she wins, I'll give up. But, understand, I'm perfectly capable of knowing just when I'm beaten."

"I only know your financial valor," said Elias dryly.

"That's all you're expected to know, sir."
